CENTRAL LABOR UNION. The Bridge Opening and Other Topics Dis-enseed-The Cignrette Strikers.

At the meeting of the Central Labor Union yesterday James Bagley of the Unity Labor Club presided, Mr. McGrath reported satisfactory progress from the Tenants' Defence Association. J. J. Finnerty of the Brass Fin ishers' Union reported active work in the move ment for a Saturday half holiday, which he hoped would succeed. A communication was eccived from the officers of Dahlgren Pos 113. G. A. R., denouncing the action of the bridge trustees in persisting in the adoption of the English Queen's birthday for opening the bridge. The reading was received with applause. Mr. McCabe, from the committee appointed to confer with the bridge trustees, reported sentatives of the workingmen, on account of that a hearing had been refused to the representatives of the workingmen, on account of the views of a dude named Bush, who thought that workingmen had no rights that dudes were bound to respect.

Matthew Maguire moved a resolution that a proclamation be issued by the Central Labor Union disapproving of the method of celebration adopted by the trustees. Mr. Blissert suggested that the workingmen celebrate the opening in their own way on the Fouril of July.

P. J. Gallagher criticised the action of the trustees in their decision not to employ men over 35 years old. This, he said, would exclude some deserving old soldiers.

J. J. Finnerty spoke of the discussion of the bridge opening as a matter foreign to the objects of the Central Labor Club and a waste of valuable time. Novertheless, the motion of Mr. Maguire was passed almost unanimously togother with another requesting all workingmen in this vicinity to unite in celebrating the opening on July 4 by crossing the bridge in procession on that day, headed by the Dahlgren Post, and the authorities were requested to pass free at all times. Confusion prevailed for a time and a serious disturbance seemed imminent between Mr. Davis and Mr. Franklin. Mr. Frazer suggested that it would be unsufe to have a military body cross the bridge before it had been tosted.

The question of raising the dues of the various unions belonging to this Union was referred to the separate unions for their opinion.

A delegate from the Framers Union asked coperation of other unions to compet the employment of union framers on Hecker's new building. Delegates from the Brieklayers' Union and the Laborers' Union promised the required coperation.

Mr. McCabe reported that the cigarette makers had not yet succeeded in their strike, and urged the cooperation of union men using tobacco to boycott the dealers who sold the goods of the offending employer. Cards with the employer's name were circulated.

Jeremiah Murphy, formerly President of the Freight Handlers' Union, addressed the meeting in beh

There are four months, and then cometh the harvest." In the middle of the sermon Mr. Moody suddenly lost his voice. In speaking of the widow's mite, the preacher said: "If there had been reported," A good many rich men had hidden behind that poor widow. THE BASE BALL CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The end of the third week of the League championship campaign sees changes. At the opening of the race Philadelphia was regarded as being decidedly overweighted, while Chicago was looked upon as almost sure to win the colors for 1883. Chicago started with a spurt, but had to go easy the second week to recover wind, and since that time they have got down to a steady gait. Detroit, from which but little was expected at the outset, has shown up in very strong form, pushing the

IN AND OUT OF WALL STREET.

Many investors and speculators have been for some time past loudly complaining of too much manipulation and "cooking" in the market. They were disgusted and withdrew from active business, declaring that they would not come back to Wall street till the market had become natural and was allowed to stand upon its own merits. They seemed to be fired of stocks à la maître d'hôtel; they wanted them served an naturel. It appears, however, that, although the bill of fare in this particular has been changed, public appetite does not revive. Most of the great chefs and manipulators are weight.

Yesterday's cable to the Herald attributes the weakness of the London market mainly to the failure of Turtons & Hadow, a reckless speculative firm. But though this failure is likely to involve some of the members of the London Stock Exchange in an aggregate loss of about $1,000,000, an isolated case of this kind should not be a reason for a further depression in business. The selling movement in London began two or three weeks before that firm falled. Yet money there is chear and plenti-ful, the banks have been steadily increasing their loans on stocks, and investors everywhere seem to be most anxious to find a safe and remunerative employment for their savings. But the trouble is that Europe has steadily been losing confidence in American railroad management and American financiering, and now becomes finally alarmed at the etirement of most of the men who have become rich at the expense of the confiding stockholders. It will take considerable time to demonstrate to foreigners that our railroads can be worked profitably without the assistance of these men. At present they seem to argue on the basis: "So-and-so was dishonest and unscrupulous, but he knew his business, while no one knows what sort of a man is to take his place now. Consequently, the best plan is to clear out."

Meanwhile, and till everything is settled and well understood, the New York Stock Exchange is in danger of being placed in a position similar to that in which the San Francisco Exchange has been ever since the bonanza kings cleared some five or six hundred millions and quit. The temporary injunction granted by Judge

Donohue in the Hutchinson case has been the subject of considerable comment in the Stock Exchange. Some members even went so far as to declare that if Mr. Hutchinson attempted to enter the Exchange he would be worse hazed than if he were a new member. However, the obnoxious broker made and intends to make no attempt to resinter the temple of Mammon. The temper of the Board was shown by the everwhelming majority given to Mr. Hatch for President against Mr. Dickerman. The latter was the regular nominee, and would undoubt-edly have been elected had it not been that some one found out that Mr. Hutchinson had an account in Mr. Dickerman's office. Cæsar's wife must be above suspicion, and so must the President of the Stock Exchange. The consequence of this feeling was the election of Mr. Hatch in the very teeth of the fact that most brokers scarcely ever see him if the Board, as his business is almost altogether confined to Government bonds.

The statements upon which Mr. Hutchinson asks for damages and an injunction against the Stock Exchange are not likely to hold water. He objects to the Star Chamber system of not allowing him to have counsel or to cross-examine the witnesses against him. This is undoubtedly a despotic mode of doing business, but it is the mode of the Stock Exchange, and Mr. Hutchinson, when he was admitted to the Board, agreed to all this. The point upon which the most stress will probably be laid is the question. What constitutes a two-thirds majority? The twentieth article of the constitution of the Stock Exchange says in speaking of members guility of "obvious fraud;"

MARKIED.

CARUANA_GARVEY_In Brookly, at the Church of St. Charles, Borroinea, Stdney, June 19, 1983, by the Rev. Spirester Matone, revere of May 12, 1883, by the Rev. A. Remedia, Leadile, N. J. by the Rev. A. This is uning of members guilty of "obvious fraud:"

Should any member be found guilty of chicus fraud-of which the deverning Committee shall be the Judyc-he shall, upon conviction thereof by a vite of two thirds of said committee present, be declared by the Present to be expelled, and his membership shall escheat to the Exchange.

Now, the meeting at which Mr. Hutchinson was examined was held on June 5, and the meeting at which Mr. Duff was examined and the expulsion took place was on the following day. At the former meeting there were 35 present; at the latter only 31. Twenty-two members voted in favor of Mr. Hutchinson's expulsion, being more than two-thirds of those present at the latter meeting. Mr. Hutchinson and his friends, however, insist that the ma-jority required is a two-thirds majority of 35, the number of members present when Mr. Hutchinson gave his evidence. The meaning in the article of the word "present" will probably give the lawyers engaged a chance for a great deal of discussion and a comfortable amount of fees. Another statement upon which Mr. Hutchinson relies is that Mr. Hays, the Treasurer of the Stock Exchange, asked to be excused from voting, on the ground that he had not sufficiently considered the case, and was not prepared to form an opinion; whereupon the committee refused so to excuse him, and he cast his vote in favor of expulsion, a somewhat curious proceeding in face of the maxim that every man is innocent until he is proved to be guilty.

The views of ex-Gov. Leland Stanford, ex-pressed in yesterday's Sun, have been much talked about by the Californians who congregate at the Windsor and at Delmonico's. It appears that when California was threatened with a drought Mr. Crocker, Second Vice-President of the Central Pacific, made the rash public statement that the road might not be able to earn its dividend should things continue as they were then. Mr. Stanford refuted this by declaring that the company had two dividends on hand ahead of the one then just paid. Since then there has been plenty of rain, good crops became assured, and the fact that the Southern Pacific is leased by the Central, and that the earnings of the former go into the treasury of the latter (in return for the guartreasury of the latter (in return for the guarantee of the interest on its bonds), make the Californians feel very confident that the wheat shipments of the Southern Facific will be of great benefit in the development of all the business interests of the Facific slope.

The future of the Union Pacific, on the other hand, is considered, much more gloomy. The Denver extension parallels it, and, in conjunction with the Burlington and Quiney, claims a division of traffic for the whole length of the line. The Southern system connectes for the through traffic, and the Northern Pacific takes away a great deal of its cattle traffic. Apart from this, most of the managers of the company are on the sick list. Mr. Dillon had had been connected to go to Europe. Mr. Clark, the old genius of the road, has been connected to go to Europe. Mr. Clark, the old genius of the road, has been connected to go to Europe. Mr. Clark, the old genius of the road, has been connected to go to the facility of the provide the dividends, sell the collaterar bonds, which nobody wants to buy, and attend to the regular business of the company besides?

Happily enough for the Pacific Mail, which is a kind of foster claim if the Union Pacific, it has been of late is made in the proving its business that it will be a separate for the unrec. The annual election of the Pacific Mail officers is to take place on the 20th of this month, and the excellent oid Board ought certainly not to undergo change. intee of the interest on its bonds), make the

STONING EXPRESS TRAINS.

Windows Broken and Passengers Injured-

POUGHEREPSIE, May 20 .- For more than a year the practice of stoning trains of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad has increased, and several persons have been seri-ously injured. Geo. D. Hull, a prominent busi-ness man of this city, has not yet entirely recovered from injuries suffered from a stone buried into a train in which he was a passenger. A little over a week ago the fast night mail train, bound north, was stoned near Tivoli, and Smith Sherman, a postal car clerk, mail train, bound north, was stoned near Most of the great chefs and manipulators are either gone or are going away, and solemnly swear that they have no interest in the market except as permanent investors. Squeezes and corners are as much out of the question as booms, and anybody can safely go into the market upon the strength of his information and of his balance at his bank. But very few people seem disposed to do so, and those who do make their appearance prove to be mostly sellers of old holdings.

Europe has been the chief culprit in this case. The announcement of the withdrawai of Mr. Vanderbilt and Mr. Gould from active business, the reports of bad crop prospects in several of the grain growing States, and the extravagant issue of a mass of new nondescript collateral bonds caused London, Amsterdam, and Frankfort to sell a large quantity of our stocks and bonds. The securities had to be borrowed here while the original certificates were on their way across the oceas. This created here the Impression that the sales were speculative short sales, and thus some sustaining nower was imparted to the Board Room trading. But as the certificates begin to arrive now and the borrowed stocks are returned, the market goes down of its own weight.
